WASHINGTON MAN AND TEAM MISSING

Greencastle, Pa., Liveryman Seeks $400 Horses and Red Rubber-Tire Buggy.

WAS SEEN NEAR FREDERICK

Stranger Said He Was J. R. Johnson, of the Capital City, and Seemed to Have Much Money.

FREDERICK, Md., Oct. 17 -- A stranger giving his name and residence, J. R. Johnson, Washington, D. C., is wanted by Liveryman A. C. Bushey, of Green-

He has with him two bay horses weighing 1,000 pounds each, valued at $400, and a red, rubbed-tire buggy. He secured the team last Thursday, for the purpose of driving in the country, and has not yet returned. The liveryman traced him to Hagerstown, where he was seen on Thursday. A man answering his description was seen with the team at Frederick.

Johnson appeared at Greencastle last Tuesday evening, registered at the Mc-Laughlin House, and seemed to have plenty of money. He hired a single rig on Wednesday and returned with it at night, and on Thursday procured the team. He is described as being about thirty years old, about 5 feet 10 inches in height, and with light brown mus-

During the war, she was with her husband, whenever the exigencies of Government would permit, and participated in all the hopes and struggles

This city's detective service was early notified, and they immediately proceeded to work the wires so as to prevent the thickness from escaping the county limits. It is thought that they headed either for Baltimore or Hagerstown.

At the conclusion of the war, upon the capture of Jefferson Davis, she hastened to him and was constant in her efforts to remain with him. Finally, in the second year of his imprisonment at Fort Monroe, the authorities permitted Mrs. Davis to stay with him

Upon his release, Mrs. Davis accompanied him to the old scenes. Very soon they established themselves at Beauvoir, a beautiful estate in the southern part of Mississippl, along the gulf of Mexico. There Mrs. Davis remained until the death of the former president, in til the death of the former president, in 1889. She soon began to feel the effects of the climate, and since that time had lived in New York, with brief residences in Buffalo and Portland.

In recent years, Mrs. Davis had written much about her husband, publishing in 1890 "JJerferson Davis: A Memoir by His Wife."
